

Building Tomorrow's Day

What the clinician considers for every patient on the caseload — and what happens when the answers have to fit into one day

HCHB The order Clinician Patient Geography Branch

COLOUR = WHERE THE ANSWER LIVES

8 questions × 16 patients

≈ 128 judgments before tomorrow exists — every evening, on the clinician's own time

Seven of the eight answers are already on a screen.

The eighth is only on the phone — and that single call is why the whole pass happens the night before, after hours, one patient at a time. It is also the only point in the day where the patient has any say in when they are seen.
