

Vendor Capital Ledger

Where the six shortlisted vendors stand on capital, built from the filings rather than the press releases. Three of them have raised $80.6M between them. The other three have raised nothing at all — and in two of those cases that is a deliberate choice rather than a failure. Four SEC Form D filings were read in full; three of them disagree with the company's own announcement.

Capital raised, to one scale

Verified dollars, not announced dollars. Where the SEC and the press release disagree, this uses the filing.

MedArrive		$40.84M
Arya Health		$25.31M
Axle Health		$14.4M
CareConnect	zero outside capital

The six, in order of capital

Each entry gives the contracting entity, the rounds with their filing provenance, and what the primary sources say that the coverage does not. SEC FORM D means the figure comes from a document signed under penalty of perjury. ANNOUNCED means it comes from the company.

SERIES A + STRATEGIC

Dec 2020	Launch capital Redesign Health	$4.5M	ANNOUNCED
28 Jan 2022	Series A — first sale Kleiner Perkins co-led · 41 investors	$32,843,775 sold	SEC FORM D
31 Mar 2023	Strategic — first sale Cobalt Ventures (BCBS Kansas City) · 1 investor	$8,000,000 sold of $10,000,000	SEC FORM D

The Series A was ~31% larger than the press release said.

The November 2021 announcement said $25M. The Form D filed 11 Feb 2022 reports $32,843,775 actually sold to 41 investors, first sale 28 Jan 2022. A $7.84M difference between the number they published and the number they filed.

The 2023 round was undersubscribed by 20%, and had exactly one investor.

They offered $10,000,000 and sold $8,000,000. $2,000,000 was never filled. The filing records one investor — Cobalt Ventures. A strategic cheque, not a round.

Nothing has been filed with the SEC since 11 April 2023.

Three years and five months. In that window they abandoned the field-provider business, rebuilt the product, changed CEO, changed state and bought a competitor's assets — all with no new exempt offering on record.

A board seat changed hands between the two filings.

Lynne Chou O'Keefe (Define Ventures) is named on the 2022 filing and absent from the 2023 one. Agneta Breitenstein appears on the 2023 filing and not the 2022 one. Constant across both: Dan Trigub, Inna Plumb, Annie Case (Kleiner Perkins), William Sullivan, Andy Harrison (Section 32).

Founder-CEO Dan Trigub signed both filings. He is gone. Ophir Lotan — ex-Chief Product Officer at Alto Pharmacy, founding team at TytoCare — was named CEO in March 2026, the same day MedArrive bought the assets of the shuttered Inbound Health. Terms undisclosed. The SEC filings give the incorporation year as 2018; every public database says the company was founded in 2020.

The seed round was $7.23M, not the $4M that was announced.

The September 2024 press said $4 million. The Form D filed 24 May 2024 reports an offering of $7,234,996 and $7,234,996 sold — the entire offering, to 17 investors, first sale 10 May 2024. The company under-reported its own seed by $3.23M.

The Series A had already closed 72 days before it was announced.

First sale 18 August 2025; the press release is dated 29 October 2025. Of $18,179,303 offered, $18,079,306 sold and $99,997 was left on the table.

Both filings decline to disclose revenue.

The Form D revenue-range field is optional and most startups pick a band. Arya selected “Decline to Disclose” on both filings, in 2024 and again in 2025, while telling the press revenue grew “more than 6x in 2025.”

The investors' board seats are legible in the filings.

Byron Ling (Twelve Below) is a related person from the seed onward. Aike Ho (ACME Capital) appears for the first time on the Series A filing — ACME's board seat, dated. Founders Kunal Sarda and Arunram Kalaiselvan are on both.

Both filings give the registered address as 19 Kent Court, Princeton, New Jersey — signed by the CEO under penalty of perjury. Their terms of service set New York law and venue and the funding release is datelined New York. This corrects our roster, which took New York as the seat. No sales commissions and no finders' fees were paid on either round.

No SEC filing of any kind exists under this name.

A company search of EDGAR for "Axle", across every form type, returns nothing; a full-text search returns only an unrelated LifeMD 8-K. $14.4M has been raised and no Form D is on record under that name. It may be filed under a legal entity we have not identified. Ask them for the entity name and we can check in a minute.

The capital is small, recent and correctly shaped.

Only $4.4M had been raised before May 2025 — that is a company that stayed lean for four years. F-Prime is Fidelity's healthcare venture arm and a credible lead for this sector.

The one obscure thread: a NASDAQ-listed partner, four years early.

LifeMD (NASDAQ: LFMD) named Axle Health in an 8-K on 15 July 2021 — a partnership for in-home blood draws and sample collection. The 8-K names Adam Stansell, co-founder and COO. He is the CEO today. A public company was willing to name them in a filing in 2021.

Headcount 34 (Apr 2026) against 28 in 2024. The about page also lists Pioneer Fund and TRAC AI among backers. No valuation disclosed at any round; PitchBook and Crunchbase are gated.

Bert E. Brodsky, co-founder

ANNOUNCED

No outside round has ever been found — and that is a finding, not a gap.

No Form D, no priced round, no investor, no accelerator. The capital is Bert E. Brodsky's. He founded Sandata Technologies, took it private in 2003, and sold it to HHAExchange on 27 September 2024. He is also founder and chairman of Mobile Health Management Services.

The founder handed over the CEO role three years ago.

Matthew McGinty was appointed CEO in August 2023; Brodsky moved to Chairman. A founder-to-operator handover that has now held for three years is a durability signal, not a red flag.

CareConnect appears not to have been part of the Sandata sale.

After the transaction, HHAExchange lists CareConnect as a third-party partner rather than a product. That reads as a company deliberately kept out of the deal — which means its owner has just been paid, and has no obvious pressure to raise or to sell.

A near-identical company does file with the SEC. It is not this one.

CareConnectMD, Inc. — CIK 0001746369, Huntington Beach, California, Delaware-incorporated, five Form D filings between 2018 and 2022.

Different company, different coast. Any funding history attributed to “CareConnect” from an SEC source is almost certainly theirs.

About 92 employees as of June 2026 — larger than Arya and Axle Health combined, on no outside capital at all. Revenue is not published; one aggregator shows $4.3M against a 33-person headcount, which does not match the 92 figure and is probably stale.

Peter Yang, founder & CEO

The only vendor whose funding number is a deliberate choice.

"Founded in 2019, CareStitch has grown ... without raising any venture capital or outside funding." No Form D, no investor, no accelerator, no debt facility found. EDGAR returns nothing for "CareStitch" across every form type — clean negative evidence.

The revenue figure is five years old and very small.

$143K in 2021, self-reported to Latka, with a two-person team. Nothing has been published since. Four employees as of April 2026.

This is the concentration risk in its purest form.

A four-person company with no balance sheet behind it. Compassus is ~3,000 clinicians across ~80 branches. We would not be their largest customer — we would be their company. That is survivable with escrow and source-code terms, and unmanageable without.

Founder and CEO Peter Yang. Growth from two people to four in five years is real and deliberate; it is not a company that stalled, it is a company that never tried to scale.

The company behind the product is Integralytic, and it is findable.

Integralytic, Lakewood, New Jersey — CEO Dina Yankelewitz, Ed.D. (Rutgers, 2009; previously Manager, Data & Analytics at Pearson). About 20 people, about $1M revenue in 2025. It operates vitaliscare.ai alongside dolphincare.ai and capstonecare.ai.

So the funding question has a different answer than we assumed.

There is no round to find because there is probably no venture-backed company here — there is a small, revenue-funded studio shipping several healthcare products. The right question is not “how much did you raise” but “how much of Integralytic’s twenty people work on Vitalis Care.”

A UK company of exactly this name exists. It is a shell, and it is not them.

VITALISCARE LTD, Companies House 15774638, registered at 71–75 Shelton Street, Covent Garden — one of the most heavily used mass-registration addresses in Britain. Incorporated 12 June 2024 as SGR FINANCIAL SOLUTIONS LTD and renamed three weeks later. Sole director a Swedish national born July 2001, resident in Stockholm. SIC code 47910 — internet mail order retail. Confirmation statement overdue. Nothing here belongs to the hospice software company.

No Israeli registry record was retrievable from this session. The Israeli Corporations Authority is the one cheap unrun check left on this vendor, and it would settle the incorporation date and the shareholders.

Who is behind the money

Every named investor in the three funded vendors, with what kind of firm it is and what round it came in at. Board seats are taken from the Form D related-person lists — the only dated, primary evidence of who actually sits at the table.

Three of the eight are payers or corporate strategics. This is a cap table assembled to sell to health plans, not to provider organisations — which is consistent with a product that starts at a discharge and bills a plan. It is the thing to hold in mind when they pitch us as a provider.

SIX NAMED BACKERS, AND TWO GROUPS THEY WILL NOT NAME

Not one home health operator and not one payer is on this cap table. It is software money — two seed funds, an enterprise-software fund and a generalist deep-tech fund. SIX NAMED BACKERS — THE STRONGEST SYNDICATE OF THE THREE

The only one of the three with a healthcare-dedicated institutional lead at Series A, and F-Prime writes $5M–$30M cheques, which means Axle has a lead capable of funding a Series B without new money at the table. The read for us

The capital splits the shortlist into two groups that need completely different contracts — and the split does not follow the product quality.

The funded three — MedArrive, Arya and Axle Health — can absorb an eighty-branch deployment and will still be here in three years if the product works. Their risk is direction, not survival: MedArrive has changed what it sells twice and has filed nothing since April 2023; Arya has changed which market it names first and declines to disclose revenue to the SEC.

The unfunded three — CareConnect, CareStitch and Vitalis Care — carry no investor pressure and no cushion. CareConnect is the strongest of them by a distance: ninety-two people on an owner's balance sheet, an owner who has just been paid for a related business, and a professional CEO in post since 2023. CareStitch is four people. Vitalis Care is a product inside a twenty-person studio.

What to ask for, and from whom. From the funded three: the current runway in months and the board's expectation for the next raise. From the unfunded three: source-code escrow, a transition-services commitment, and named continuity of the two or three people who actually know the system. Neither ask is unusual and both are cheap to refuse in writing, which is itself informative.
